

Zebra Crossing

Sunday, 06 August 2006

Last Updated Tuesday, 01 May 2007

Ginnevra goes a-wandering. Cue lots of climbing, webbing, and falling. Immediately following this video, a full tank change has resulted in much less distance between the top of the tank, and the substrate, making falling almost impossible, and giving her some nice new soil to dig in and make an alternative burrow to the one I have just removed.

Anyway, here she is, doing a thing like only seemanni can...